Informed Consent for Therapy Services

Please read this document carefully. It explains what to expect from therapy, your rights, and our practice policies. Ask any questions before signing.

ABOUT THERAPY

Therapy is a collaborative process. You will be asked to share thoughts, feelings, and experiences that may be difficult to discuss. Therapy can bring up uncomfortable emotions — this is a normal part of the process and often leads to meaningful growth. Progress depends on your active participation.

CONFIDENTIALITY

What you share in therapy is confidential. Your therapist will not disclose your information to anyone without your written consent.

Exceptions to confidentiality — your therapist is required by law to disclose information when:

- There is imminent risk of serious harm to yourself or others
- There is reasonable suspicion of abuse or neglect of a child, elderly person, or dependent adult
- A court orders the release of your records

In these situations, your therapist will make every effort to discuss the situation with you before taking action, except when doing so would put someone at risk.

TELEHEALTH SERVICES (DELETE IF NOT APPLICABLE)

Sessions may be conducted via secure video platform. You agree to participate in a private location and to ensure a stable internet connection. Your therapist will use a HIPAA-compliant platform. Technology failures may require rescheduling.
